Leadership Behaviors, Attitude, and Style

@NadiyahRosita
FEB UB - 2015
Leadership style

A leader’s combination of attitudes and behaviors leads:
1. Certain regularity
2. Predictability in dealing with group members.
Participative Leadership

- Participative leaders share decision making with group members

@NadiyahRosita FEB UB - 2015
Participative Leadership

Devided into 3 type:

Consultative Leader, confer with group members before making a decision

Consensus Leader, They encourage group discussion about an issue and then make a decision that reflects general agreement and that group members will support

Democratic Leader confer final authority on the group. They function as collectors of group opinion and take a vote before making a decision.
Autocratic Leadership

- They make decisions confidently, assume that group members will comply
- Autocratic leaders are considered task-oriented because they place heavy emphasis
- Typical autocratic behaviors include telling people what to do
Entrepreneurial Leadership

1. Strong achievement drive and sensible risk taking
2. High degree of enthusiasm and creativity.
3. Tendency to act quickly when opportunity arises
4. Constant hurry combined with impatience
5. Visionary perspective combined with tenacity
Entrepreneurial Leadership con’t

- 6. Dislike of hierarchy and bureaucracy
- 7. Preference for dealing with external customers
- 8. Eye on the future
Task!

- Gender differences in leadership style
- How to selecting the best leadership style